

Schartner Family
Schartner Farm, Exeter, RI

Schartner Family
Schartner Farm, Exeter, RI

Schartner Family
Schartner Farm, Exeter, RI

Schartner Family
Schartner Farm, Exeter, RI

Name:	Schartner Family
Farm Name:	Schartner Farm, Schartner Place & Route 2, Exeter, RI
	Schartner Family Farm was started by Richard Sr.'s grandfather as a dairy farm in the 1930s with 100 acres of land. Eventually they began selling produce and the farm stand opened in 1973. In addition to fruits, veggies and plants, the farm stand also sells fresh soup, sandwiches and baked goods. The 300 acre farm is now run by Richard and Nancy Scharmer, and their sons Richard Jr., Tim, John and Jeb. They grow pick-your-own strawberries and blueberries as well as corn, tomatoes, garlic, onions, potatoes, pumpkins, lettuce, peas, peppers, eggplant, flowers, and Christmas trees.
	IN THEIR OWN WORDS: Richard Sr.'s favorite saying is "Embrace the possible!" And all the Scharmers love their team farming lifestyle — "You have to — it's a 24/7 job!"
Equipment Stats:
15 tractors	2 tree-spades which can dig up whole trees up to 30 feet high with 8 foot roots!
20 greenhouses	2 goats, and several pigs, chickens, ducks, geese, all for the kids to enjoy
Types of produce served in RI Schools:	Lettuce, Broccoli and Strawberries

Name:	Schartner Family
Farm Name:	Schartner Farm, Schartner Place & Route 2, Exeter, RI
	Schartner Family Farm was started by Richard Sr.'s grandfather as a dairy farm in the 1930s with 100 acres of land. Eventually they began selling produce and the farm stand opened in 1973. In addition to fruits, veggies and plants, the farm stand also sells fresh soup, sandwiches and baked goods. The 300 acre farm is now run by Richard and Nancy Scharmer, and their sons Richard Jr., Tim, John and Jeb. They grow pick-your-own strawberries and blueberries as well as corn, tomatoes, garlic, onions, potatoes, pumpkins, lettuce, peas, peppers, eggplant, flowers, and Christmas trees.
	IN THEIR OWN WORDS: Richard Sr.'s favorite saying is "Embrace the possible!" And all the Scharmers love their team farming lifestyle — "You have to — it's a 24/7 job!"
Equipment Stats:
15 tractors	2 tree-spades which can dig up whole trees up to 30 feet high with 8 foot roots!
20 greenhouses	2 goats, and several pigs, chickens, ducks, geese, all for the kids to enjoy
Types of produce served in RI Schools:	Lettuce, Broccoli and Strawberries

Name:	Schartner Family
Farm Name:	Schartner Farm, Schartner Place & Route 2, Exeter, RI
	Schartner Family Farm was started by Richard Sr.'s grandfather as a dairy farm in the 1930s with 100 acres of land. Eventually they began selling produce and the farm stand opened in 1973. In addition to fruits, veggies and plants, the farm stand also sells fresh soup, sandwiches and baked goods. The 300 acre farm is now run by Richard and Nancy Scharmer, and their sons Richard Jr., Tim, John and Jeb. They grow pick-your-own strawberries and blueberries as well as corn, tomatoes, garlic, onions, potatoes, pumpkins, lettuce, peas, peppers, eggplant, flowers, and Christmas trees.
	IN THEIR OWN WORDS: Richard Sr.'s favorite saying is "Embrace the possible!" And all the Scharmers love their team farming lifestyle — "You have to — it's a 24/7 job!"
Equipment Stats:
15 tractors	2 tree-spades which can dig up whole trees up to 30 feet high with 8 foot roots!
20 greenhouses	2 goats, and several pigs, chickens, ducks, geese, all for the kids to enjoy
Types of produce served in RI Schools:	Lettuce, Broccoli and Strawberries

Name:	Schartner Family
Farm Name:	Schartner Farm, Schartner Place & Route 2, Exeter, RI
	Schartner Family Farm was started by Richard Sr.'s grandfather as a dairy farm in the 1930s with 100 acres of land. Eventually they began selling produce and the farm stand opened in 1973. In addition to fruits, veggies and plants, the farm stand also sells fresh soup, sandwiches and baked goods. The 300 acre farm is now run by Richard and Nancy Scharmer, and their sons Richard Jr., Tim, John and Jeb. They grow pick-your-own strawberries and blueberries as well as corn, tomatoes, garlic, onions, potatoes, pumpkins, lettuce, peas, peppers, eggplant, flowers, and Christmas trees.
	IN THEIR OWN WORDS: Richard Sr.'s favorite saying is "Embrace the possible!" And all the Scharmers love their team farming lifestyle — "You have to — it's a 24/7 job!"
Equipment Stats:
15 tractors	2 tree-spades which can dig up whole trees up to 30 feet high with 8 foot roots!
20 greenhouses	2 goats, and several pigs, chickens, ducks, geese, all for the kids to enjoy
Types of produce served in RI Schools:	Lettuce, Broccoli and Strawberries